INTRODUCTION

The directory of Aboriginal organizations is designed as a useful reference and resource book to assist people to locate the appropriate organizations and services.

The directory also serves as a means of improving communications among people. The idea for the directory arose from the desire to make information about Aboriginal organizations more available to the public. This directory was first published in 1975 and has grown considerably since its initial edition, which had 16 pages compared to the 100 pages of the present edition.

The directory reflects the vitality and diversity of Aboriginal cultural traditions, organizations, and enterprises.

The editorial committee has made every effort to present in this directory an accurate and up-to-date listing. Fax numbers, Email addresses and Websites have been included whenever available. Inevitably, errors and omissions will have occurred in the revising and updating of this Directory, and the committee would greatly appreciate receiving information about such oversights, as well as changes and new information to be included in a future revision. Please call, fax or write to the Aboriginal Friendship Committee, Fort Garry United Church, using the information on the next page.

The Councils' work is aimed at assisting Bands in administration and financial management of local government on the reserve. The main objective of the Tribal Council is to generally unify and maintain and expand the interests, lives, and identity of the Band members. They work with the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development and with other federal departments to further facilitate local government and the transfer of responsibility to the Chief and Council at the speed in which the Band will accept responsibility and accountability.

The Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC) is an important part of the Settlement Agreement. The Commission has been given the responsibility of:

- Telling Canadians what happened in the Indian Residential Schools
- Honouring the lives of former students and their families;
- Creating a permanent record of the Indian Residential School legacy

To do this, the TRC wants to meet with, and collect the experiences of former students, staff, their families, and anyone else who has an experience to share.

BAND COUNCILS

The local government of each First Nation Reserve is an elected Band council, and a chief, who in most cases is also elected. Most of the Manitoba Bands are (1) Cree, (2) Ojibway/Saulteau, or Chippewa, or (3) mixed Cree-Ojibway. A few Bands located in southeast Manitoba are (4) Sioux; the two northernmost Bands are (5) Chipewyan, a Mackenzie River culture group. Functions of the Band Council vary from reserve to reserve; many are concerned with economic development and community services, e.g., utilities and police

LANGUAGES

Seven Aboriginal languages are spoken in Manitoba. They are: Cree, Dene, Dakota, Inuktituq, Michif, Oji-Cree (Island-Lake Dialect), Ojibway.

Designed by internationally renowned architect Douglas Cardinal, the facility reflects the influence and wisdom of the Aboriginal community.

More than just a landmark building, Neeginan is a place where the Aboriginal community can share its culture and sense of spirituality with the rest of Winnipeg. It is a unique concept which recognizes the urban Aboriginal community's impact on the area—a delicate balance of economic, social and cultural concerns. Revitalization, as envisioned in the 1995 Winnipeg Development Agreement, will make this an area where people will want to live, work and prosper. Neeginan is the cornerstone of the revitalization of North Main Street. It is a place for exploring the ways of the Aboriginal community past and present. It is a place where Aboriginal people can truly claim ownership and pride. Translated from Cree, Neeginan means 'Our Place'. The structure is an embodiment of this sentiment.

Manitoba Health - Aboriginal Health Branch

2nd floor - 300 Carlton St.
Winnipeg, MB R3B 3M9

The mandate of the Aboriginal Health Branch is to develop partnerships within the Aboriginal community to improve the health status of Aboriginal peoples. These partnerships are based on a scientific evidence framework to ensure health outcomes and to reduce the cost of health care delivery. The work of the Aboriginal Health Branch will focus on a variety of areas such as respiratory rates in children, the epidemic of diabetes in Aboriginal people, midwifery initiatives, and health and wellness within communities. It is anticipated that initial pilot projects in these areas will be community and culturally based in response to the health needs of Aboriginal people.

REGIONAL HEALTH AUTHORITIES IN MANITOBA

Manitoba's health care system is a broad network of services and programs. Overseeing this system is Manitoba Health, a department of the provincial government. For the most part, the actual services are delivered through the eleven regional agencies set up by the province to meet the local needs of Manitobans. In this model, the regional health authorities are responsible within the context of broad provincial policy direction, for assessing and prioritizing needs and health goals, and developing and managing an integrated approach to their own health care system.

Aboriginal Languages of Manitoba Association, Inc. (formerly called The Manitoba Association for Native Languages, Inc.) was incorporated in 1985 to promote the retention of Manitoba's Aboriginal languages. The Native Education Concerns Group, which was formed in 1978, addressed the issue of the need for Aboriginal language preservation. A resolution was passed at a Provincial Native Language Conference in 1984 and a non-profit organization was formed. Some of the goals and objectives are to:

- establish a permanent language institute to manage research and development of Aboriginal languages.
- assist communities and community members in the development, research and implementation of language programs.
- assist communities and community members in the design and implementation of culturally appropriate programming.

There are seven Aboriginal languages spoken in Manitoba: Cree, Dene, Dakota, Michif, Inuktituq, Oji-Cree (Island-Lake dialect), Ojibwe/Saulteaux.

The Red River ACCESS Program was created to provide individuals from low socio-economic backgrounds, primarily Aboriginal people, single parents, and recent immigrants with an opportunity to attain a college or university education. Many social. economic, cultural/racial, educational and geographical barriers continue to exist which prevent these individuals from gaining entry and successfully completing a post-secondary education. Through the ACCESS Program, post-secondary education for previously excluded learners can now be a reality. This program offers entry into the following program areas:

1. Business Administration Integrated
   Business administration Integrated is a three-year diploma program with an August entry date. The program is designed to provide a general business background so graduates can choose a career from a variety of job opportunities in the business community. Students can major in Accounting. Marketing, or Administration. The modified pace of the first two years allows additional time for upgrading and for meeting individual needs. The third year of the program is similar in pace to the second year of the regular Business Administration program, and students from both programs attend the same classes

2. College Preparation for Nursing / Southern Nursing Program
   (Also Incorporates the ACCESS Program Southern Nursing program)
   College Preparation for Nursing is designed to prepare students with the academic skills and developmental skills necessary to enter the Joint Baccalaureate Nursing (JBN) program. The Joint Baccalaureate Nursing Program Is offered in partnership with the University of Manitoba. The CPN/SNP programs integrate: academic courses necessary to bring the students to an Adult Grade 12 level; support courses such as Introduction to College Studies & Professional Development; and three courses from the 1st year JBN Program.
3. Integrated Science and Technology ACCESS Program (ISTAP)
   The purpose of this program is to provide Aboriginal students with the knowledge and skills needed to become qualified Technologists or Technicians. This program was also designed to deliver the support services required to help students achieve this goal. The first year of the program includes technology and ACCESS support courses, some of which will be used to reduce the number of credits to be taken in subsequent years. The second year focuses on developing core competencies needed for the CIVIL/CAD technologies and is required before students make the choice to specialize in a particular technology program.
4. Integrated Pre-Trades Program
   The Integrated Pre-Trades Program is an ACCESS Model Program designed specifically to recruit Aboriginal students into trades programs such as Automotive Technician Certificate, Carpentry and Woodworking, Electrical, Manufacturing Technician, Outdoor Power Equipment Technician, Piping Trades, Precision Metal manufacturing, and Heavy Duty Equipment mechanic. The purpose of this program is to increase the participation and retention rates of Aboriginal students in these trades programs by providing a five-month pre-trades component to existing RRC programs. The intent is to allow two or three students per trade program per intake in August and February.

Manitoba Aboriginal Procurement Initiative (API): Business Registration:
The Manitoba Government, through its Procurement Services Branch, has developed an Aboriginal Procurement Initiative to increase the participation of Aboriginal businesses in providing goods and services to the Manitoba Government. A key component in the success of this Initiative is an Aboriginal Business Directory to help government buyers identify Aboriginal businesses and the goods and services they offer. This Directory is used by Government purchasers of goods and services to help them to identify Aboriginal businesses that can potentially meet their contracting needs, and who might then be interested in submitting bids to supply the goods or services required. A business may also be asked at the time it submits a bid to certify that it is an Aboriginal business.

We invite you to confirm that your business meets the criteria to be listed as an Aboriginal business on Manitoba's Aboriginal Business Directory by filling in the Registration form provided on our Website shown above. Please forward the completed form by mail or fax it to the Procurement Services Branch at (204) 945-1455.

If you have any questions about the Aboriginal Business Directory or comments about the Aboriginal Procurement Initiative please contact:

The Parish exists in response to the expressed need of the Catholic Aboriginal people of Winnipeg for a church of their own - a church not only in the sense of a place to attend mass and celebrate the sacraments, but a church as the central place in the development of an Aboriginal Christian community.

This ministry of social justice provides liaison and assistance to individuals and families attempting to obtain services from the various social agencies in the city, and support and help to individuals and families in crisis. Church Mass: Sunday at 9:00 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

The purpose of MCC Manitoba's Aboriginal Neighbours Program is to assist Aboriginal people in Manitoba and Northwestern Ontario in achieving political, economic, social and cultural self-determination. The work is concentrated in three program areas:

1. Community Economic Development: MCC assists individuals and families, First Nations and Band corporations, and community-based associations in creating employment and generating income. Assistance takes the form of technical support, training and facilitation of strategic economic planning. Particular expertise has been developed in the areas of tourism, developing products based on indigenous foods and youth employment.
2. Social Development: MCC uses a community development approach to facilitate strategic planning and organizational development, with a particular focus on community wellness and suicide prevention.
3. "Renewing Relationships" - Social and Economic Justice: The purpose of this program is to facilitate dialogue and mutual understanding between Aboriginal and non- Aboriginal people as a basis for working together to address issues of contemporary or historical injustices experienced by Aboriginal peoples in Canada. The emphasis of this program is on Aboriginal self-government, social policy and sacred access to land and resources.

Aboriginal Capital Corporations:
Over the past two decades, Aboriginal Business Canada and the Aboriginal business community have worked together to address the shortage of available credit to finance Aboriginal small business development. As a result, a network of loan corporations, structured as non-governmental financial institutions were created, initially capitalized by Industry Canada, but owned and controlled by Aboriginal people. These "Aboriginal Capital Corporations" (ACCs) allow for services to be provided which take into account different local market conditions and economic environments. ACCs concentrate on providing developmental loans, i.e., loans to enterprises which are not yet ready to successfully secure business loans from banks. Some ACCs also provide business services, and have diversified their operations to be able to house External Delivery Services for Aboriginal Business Canada. There are 32 active ACCs across Canada.

Legal Aid Manitoba exists to help people - individuals and groups - who need a lawyer but who cannot afford to pay for one.
There are three main types of Legal Aid services:
Drop-in advice and information - Members of the public may meet with a lawyer or supervised paralegal to discuss any legal problem. No application is needed for this type of service - everyone qualifies.
Formal representation - Legal Aid Manitoba pays for or helps to pay for a lawyer:

For this kind of service individuals must complete an application and be found eligible. In some cases, Legal Aid will provide this service through full service duty counsel.
Duty counsel - Lawyers are present in many criminal and youth and some child welfare courts to help and advise anyone who has to appear before a judge. An application is not needed for this type of service - everyone qualifies.
Legal Aid has other special programs which include service to Aboriginal clients:
Northern Paralegal Program:
Aboriginal paralegals who speak both English and Cree work out of the Legal Aid offices in Thompson and The Pas. They travel to the communities of Cross Lake, God's Lake Narrows, Norway House, Shamattawa, Oxford House, Pukatawagan, Moose Lake, Easterville and Cranberry Portage. In each of these communities the paralegals hold drop-in clinics to help residents understand and use Legal Aid services. They also assist community organizations in developing justice-related programs (such as crisis shelters or fine option programs) and dealing with larger legal problems affecting the entire community. As part of the court process, it is the role of the paralegal to assist Legal Aid lawyers and Aboriginal clients to communicate with each other by overcoming the language barrier.

Onashowewin Inc. is a community-based, non-profit organization dedicated to establishing restorative and holistic approaches for achieving justice that take into account the needs and strengths if the community.

Onashowewin accepts referrals from the Crown Attorney's office for people who have been charged with a variety of offences. We accept both young offenders and adults at various points in the justice system. We offer victim/offender mediation, community Justice Forums, and conciliation, as well as programs for offenders.

Our program is not retributive, as is the mainstream justice system. We do not punish, even though we do hold offenders accountable for their actions. We do not judge people based on a single criminal incident. Our approach is to try and address underlying issues that have led to criminal behaviours. Our objective is to help restore, heal and transform relationships and the community.
